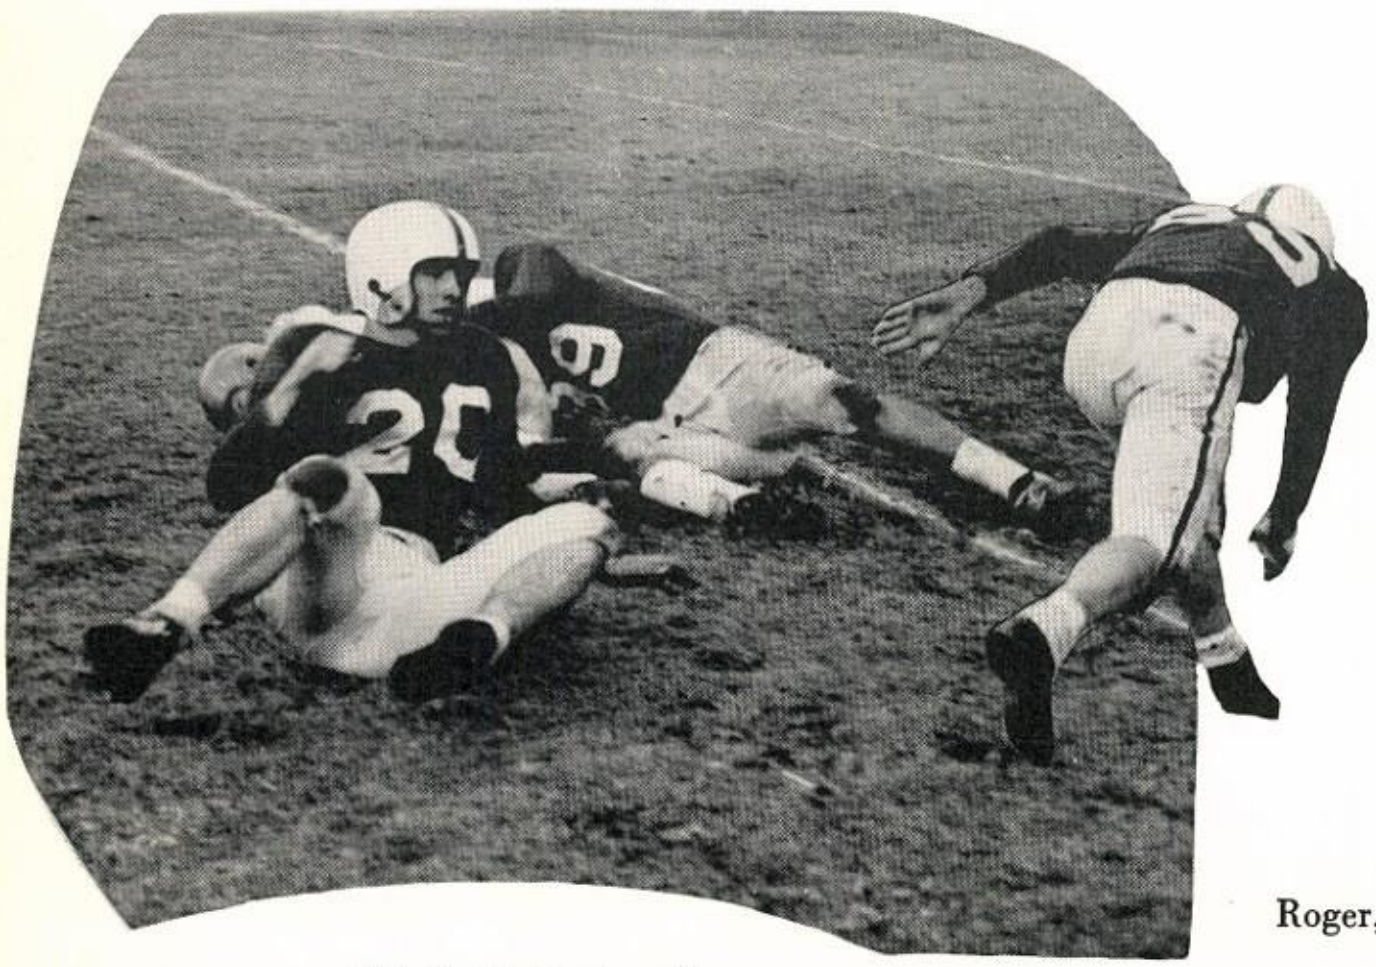
Patrick around his own right end—now how did he do that!

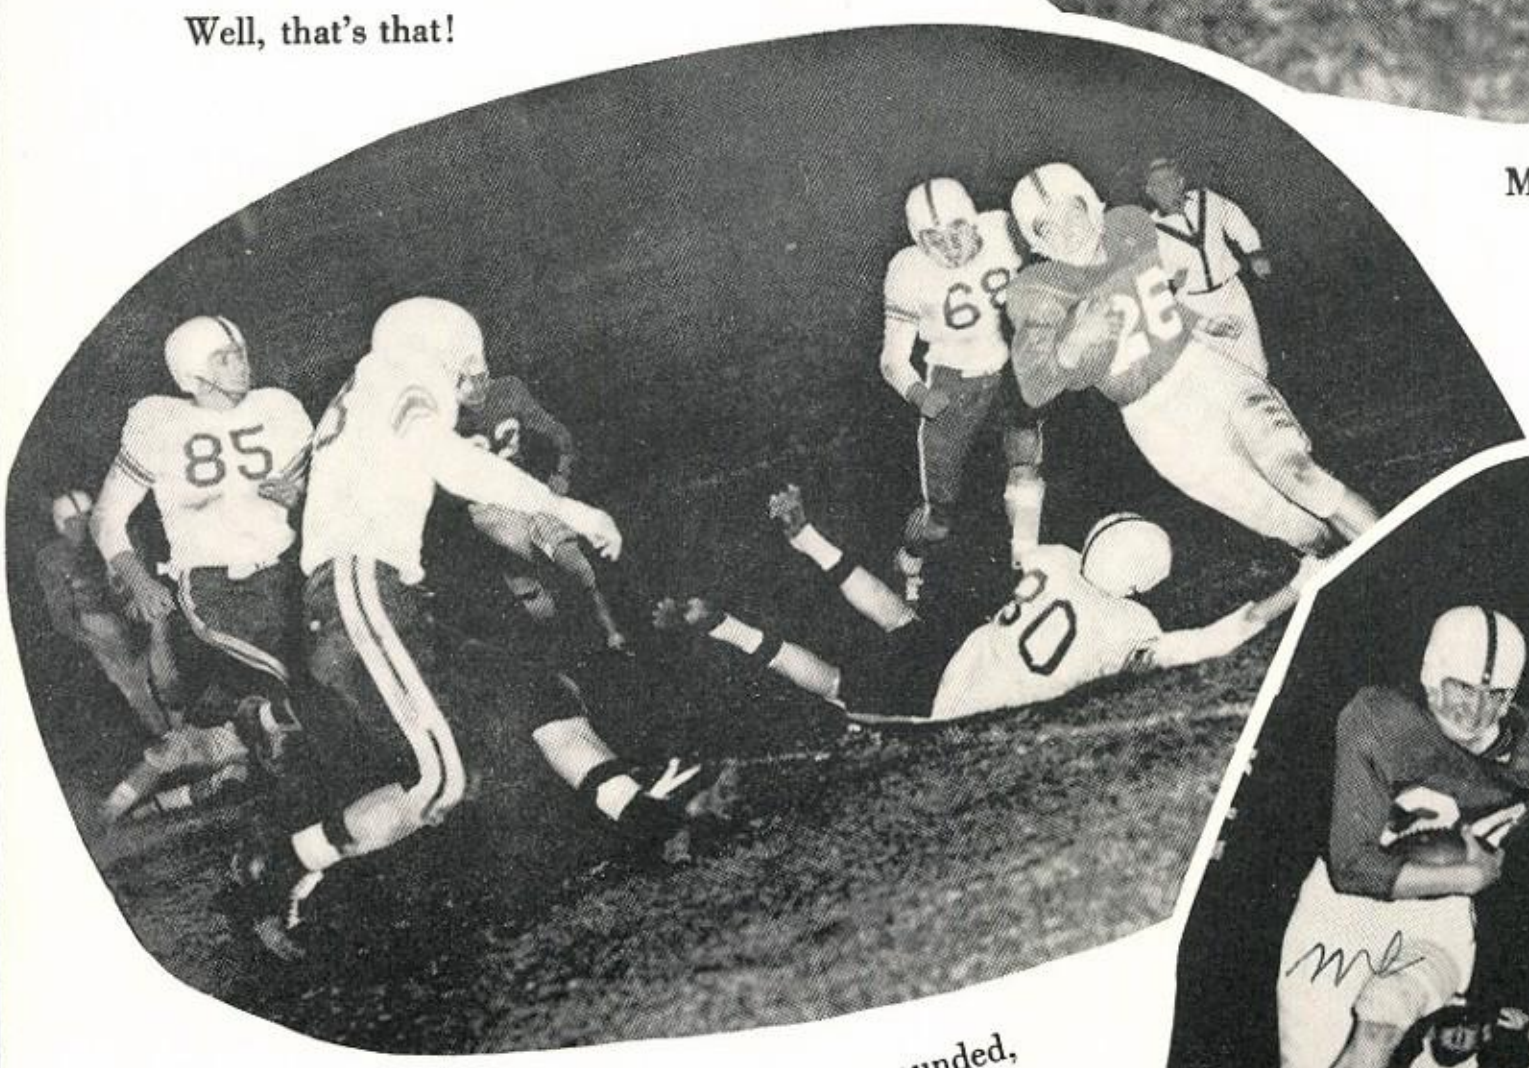


What's the business?

Roger, where are you going?

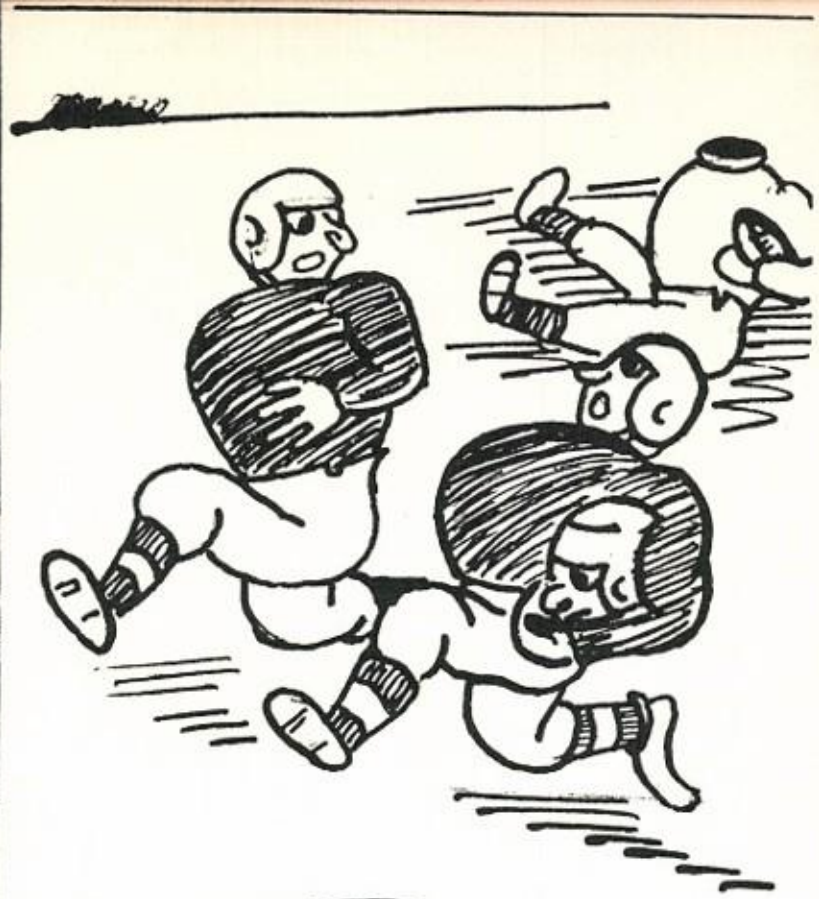
Well, that's that!

My, how cozy ! !



Yer surrounded, pahdner!

Make room for a real man.



Now—what's so interesting about the ground, Larry?

FRESH!

Wonder what Coach will say about this one?

Charles, just what have you said?

What's with the cheesecake, Sug?

It takes two to hold a bucket—16 full ounces!

On May 1, 1953, the high school gym became an underseas paradise for the Junior-Senior Prom. The girls appeared through a large white oyster shell lined with pink taffeta, surrounded by sea shells, seaweeds, glittering white driftwood, and sea fans. The underseas theme was carried out all over the gym with fish nets, mermaids, coral, rocks, starfish, and even a life-sized octopus. The Garth Green Orchestra furnished the music. With this lovely setting it was inevitable that everyone should have a wonderful evening.

Ellen Rae, you're too young to be making eyes at those boys!

The playboys are up the tree—again.

Looks like "Headless Jon" is getting the worst end of the deal.

Man, What toothpicks!!

Dignified—President? Editor?

Would Mrs. Newsome like this?

Last one down is an old maid.
